I am a Computer Science Engineering student, constantly learning different technologies and upgrading myself. I am good in software and web development and have made many projects using different technologies. Apart from the development, I am also good in communication (spoken and written) and possess good leadership qualities . I am good in representing something effectively and love to take part in challenges and hackathons. I want to be an entrepreneur and I think that work exposure and experience gained during this time will help me a lot to achieve my dream.
